

THE 2026 NATIONAL SURVEY OF COMMUNITY REHABILITATION PROVIDERS

WHAT IS THE 2026 NATIONAL SURVEY OF COMMUNITY REHABILITATION PROVIDERS (CRPS)?

Community Rehabilitation Providers (CRPs) are at the heart of employment and day services for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD). But what do we know about CRPs?

Why are we conducting the CRP Survey?

Data about CRP services, workforce capacity, and challenges are limited and outdated. Now, researchers from the Institute for Community Inclusion (ICI) and the American Network of Community Options and Resources (ANCOR) are conducting the CRP Survey to collect this timely information about CRPs from every state.

We will share what we learn from CRPs to help strengthen the employment and day services system at both the state and national levels.

Who participates in the CRP Survey?

ICI researchers have developed a list of providers that offer employment and day services to people with IDD across the US. We have randomly selected agencies from this list and invited those providers to participate in the survey. The participating agencies will represent CRPs across the country.

What will we learn from CRPs?

Our survey specifically collects data directly from providers about:

- size, structure, and services at their organizations
- employment and non-work service models
- use of technology and remote/virtual services
- workforce capacity, staffing roles, and challenges
- anticipated changes in service and workforce needs

How will we use the survey results?

The CRP Survey will help us understand how to improve the employment and day services system for people with IDD.

CRP Survey responses will:

- ensure providers' voices are heard from all across the US
- uncover CRP workforce issues and funding challenges
- give agency leadership and policymakers accurate information they need to make important decisions about services
